

Working with English Language Learners (Virtual)

Presented by: Dr. Elsa Cárdenas-Hagan

Participants in the training program learn the essential components of literacy instruction for English language learners. Specific strategies for designing and implementing effective transition lessons which build upon native language literacy skills will be included. Participants will learn the language and literacy concepts that transfer across languages. They will also understand first and second language and literacy development and how to incorporate the WELLS lessons as prescribed. In addition, cross-linguistic exercises will be demonstrated and practiced. This seminar will help instructors implement appropriate and effective lessons for developing English language and literacy skills among Spanish speaking English language learners.
